

Shelli Boucher

KITCHEN DESIGNER

With a passion for the building trades and an appreciation for design, Shelli naturally fell into designing kitchens and bathrooms. Working with homeowners and contractors alike, she believes the process of designing kitchens should be an enjoyable one for everyone involved, as she helps bring the vision for the space to life. With years of experience in customer service, creating and maintaining relationships is something Shelli values and strives to deliver on in her role with Team Hancock.

“When you go to work and your job is to create or design something, you know every day will be a good day—it is such a rewarding process to help bring someone’s vision to life!”
