

Jessica Enman

KITCHEN DESIGNER

Jessica enjoys being creative while having fun in designing her clients' spaces. For her, being a kitchen designer really is the dream job and one that is forever changing—with new clients, new spaces, and new products. Jessica takes pride in being an excellent listener, and takes the time to ask questions that will result in a design that is well thought out and executed. With a Bachelor's degree in Architecture, Jessica has a wide range of knowledge and an excellent skillset that help with many aspects of being a kitchen designer.

"The most satisfying part of this job is helping my clients determine and incorporate exactly what they are looking for in a project. I help them go from a couple of notes jotted on the back of an envelope to serving their family dinner from their dream kitchen."
