

Rachel Hall

KITCHEN DESIGNER

Rachel brings over 20 years of experience in the building materials industry to her kitchen designs, giving her a deeper understanding of the construction and remodeling process. Designing kitchens since 2014, her attention to detail and ability to recognize clients' needs allow her to create designs that suit a wide range of styles, budgets, and spaces. She enjoys working with both builders and homeowners, finding the intersection of functionality and design for each client. Rachel's industry knowledge, precision, and creativity bring tremendous value to our kitchen and bath design team.

"My favorite part of the design process is finding that 'WOW' moment for the client. It can be something small, like a functional accessory, or major, such as an entire layout change. You can tell when we find that one thing that truly excites them—it changes their entire perspective on their kitchen."
